

Washington Observations 1846-1898

The Washington Observations series was published by the US Naval Observatory from 1846 to 1898. Its first issue was described by then-Superintendent Matthew F. Maury as “the first volume of Astronomical Observations that has ever been issued from an institution properly entitled to the name of Observatory on this side of the Atlantic.” The proceeding volumes were published irregularly until 1898 when the U.S. Naval Observatory Publications series (also known as the Second Series) began.

Notes:

1. The 1853 - 1860 observations were published in the 1871 volume as Appendix II.

2. The volume for 1893 was not published in the original Washington Observation Series but was delayed and included in the U. S. Naval Observatory Publications Second Series.

3. The volume for 1894 was not published in the original Washington Observation Series but was delayed and included in the U. S. Naval Observatory Publications Second Series. One Appendix was published in 1895 to be included in an 1894 observation volume; however the 1894 volume was never published.
