About This Report

In 2018, RAND Project AIR FORCE conducted a study to investigate proficiency concerns across the aircrew flight equipment (AFE) specialty, which was created in 2008.¹ Because this career field plays an important role in the safety of aircrew and mistakes can affect the mission and cost lives, high proficiency among its personnel is critical. That research, which suggested that proficiency issues may be related to inadequate training and offered suggestions for improvement, was based on interviews with a wide range of AFE personnel and subject-matter experts. The research team recommended that the U.S. Air Force pursue additional analyses to further investigate those findings. These appendixes present the survey instrument and the Career Field Education and Training Plans (CFETP) job task code lookup table, linking the CFETP and Occupational Analysis Report.

The main report is available at www.rand.org/t/RR-A991-1.

The research reported here was commissioned by Air Force Global Strike Command (AFGSC) A3/6, director of operations and communications, and conducted within the Workforce, Development, and Health Program of RAND Project AIR FORCE as part of a fiscal year 2021 project, “Aircrew Flight Equipment (AFE) Training Program Quantitative Review and Analysis.”

RAND Project AIR FORCE

RAND Project AIR FORCE (PAF), a division of the RAND Corporation, is the Department of the Air Force’s (DAF’s) federally funded research and development center for studies and analyses, supporting both the United States Air Force and the United States Space Force. PAF provides the DAF with independent analyses of policy alternatives affecting the development, employment, combat readiness, and support of current and future air, space, and cyber forces. Research is conducted in four programs: Strategy and Doctrine; Force Modernization and Employment; Resource Management; and Workforce, Development, and Health. The research reported here was prepared under contract FA7014-16-D-1000.

Additional information about PAF is available on our website: www.rand.org/paf/

This report documents work originally shared with the DAF on May 19, 2022. The draft report, dated March 2022, was reviewed by formal peer reviewers and DAF subject-matter experts.

Appendix E. Survey Instrument

This appendix provides screenshots of the survey that members of the aircrew flight equipment (AFE) career field completed between October 2021 and February 2022. The approach and findings can be found in our main report.

The screenshots are grouped according to the path that the participant completed. The paths that participants followed depended on their role in the career field. A chapter of the main report is dedicated to each path. There are four paths: one for everyone in the AFE career field, one for noncommissioned officers in charge (NCOICs), one for participants who self-identified as personnel who are responsible for providing training, and one for personnel who are AFE lead trainers. Table E.1, which is reproduced from the main report, provides an overview of the content covered in each of the four survey paths. For more information about the survey content and approach, see the main report.

Table E.1. Summary of Survey Routes and Associated Topics

Survey Section	Example Topics Covered	Section Recipients
		Everyone in AFE	NCOICs	Trainers	AFE Lead Trainers
Background and routing questions	Current and past assignments and responsibilities	X	X	X	X
NCOIC views on section performance	Tasks performed by one of the sections NCOICs oversee: - Which tasks are performed - How frequently - At what proficiency level Current and ideal number of personnel assigned to various activities		X X X X
Trainer views on training needs	Which tasks they train Of those: ideal training time for someone coming from IST or someone who changes assignments Proficiency of personnel coming out of IST			X X X	X X X
Lead trainer views about trainers	Adequacy of trainers and training time Who generally delivers training Current and ideal number of personnel to train at one time Constraints to training more people				X X X X
Ideas for improving training	Open-ended question about what AETC, HAF, and respondent's MAJCOM could do to better support AFE training		X	X	X
Self-ratings of proficiency	Tasks performed in current job - Which tasks are performed - How frequently - At what proficiency and confidence level do they perform the tasks	X X X X	X X X X	X X X X	X X X X
Training consistency and maintenance	Consistency of task performance needed to maintain proficiency Consistency of training across locations and instructors	X X	X X	X X	X X
Workload	Time spent on various AFE activities Task demand variability and workload predictability	X X	X X	X X	X X
Training aids	TO usefulness, accessibility, etc. Potential usefulness of supplementary training materials or technologies	X X	X X	X X	X X

NOTE: X indicates the topics that were included for that participant group. AETC = Air Education and Training Command; IST = initial skills training; MAJCOM = major command; TO = technical order.

What do you wish AETC, HAF, and your MAJCOM would do differently to support AFE training? Be sure to clarify who should be responsible (AETC, the MAJCOM, HAF, etc.)?

Appendix F. CFETP Proficiency Code Lookup Table (CFETP to Occupational Analysis Report)

In our survey, we asked participants to rate their proficiency on tasks listed in the career field's Occupational Analysis Report (OAR). The U.S. Air Force's 2017 OAR provides a crosswalk linking nearly every task in the CFETP to one or more of the tasks in the OAR and nearly every OAR task to one or more CFETP task.² In the process of developing the survey, we looked closely at the linked tasks and noted that many are similar enough that someone's ratings of proficiency on one task could be used to understand their proficiency on the linked task in the other list. However, in a subset of cases, we noted that the tasks might not be well aligned across the lists and ratings on the OAR. The crosswalk of all CFETP tasks to the corresponding OAR tasks is provided in Table F.1 for reference. Proficiency levels listed in the CFETP are included as well.
