Dear Mr. Chairman:

As you requested, we have developed information that compares the composition of active duty troops deployed to Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm with that of active duty military personnel for each service by race or Hispanic origin, gender, combat/noncombat positions, and rank.

This report also contains gender comparisons of active duty military personnel with the general U.S. population. Differences in how information on racial and ethnic data is accumulated for the military services and the general population precludes comparison of racial and ethnic composition. Information on reserve forces and military dependents will be provided separately. The completeness of available data on deployed reserve forces is undergoing review by the Department of Defense.

Results in Brief

Operation Desert Storm:
Race and Gender Comparison of Deployed Forces with All Active Duty Forces

The proportion of black personnel in the active duty force deployed to Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm was 3 percentage points higher than their proportion in the total active duty force. The proportion of white personnel deployed was 4 percentage points lower than their proportion in the total active duty force.

The deployed active duty force also contained a higher proportion of men than the active duty force as a whole. Men also comprised a considerably higher proportion of both total and deployed active forces than they represent in the general population. Women, on the other hand, comprise more than 50 percent of the U.S. population, make up 11 percent of the active duty forces, and represented only 6 percent of the active duty deployed personnel. Agency program officials who reviewed a draft of this report noted that the difference in the proportion of women deployed versus the total active force is probably due to the combat exclusion restrictions that reduce the number of women assigned to units and job categories most likely to be included in a hostile deployment.

Comparison of Deployed Forces With Active Duty

Table 1 shows a comparison of the active duty forces and the forces deployed for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm by race and gender.

Comparison of Combat and Combat Support Positions in Active Duty and Deployed Forces

There was little difference between the proportion of black personnel in combat positions¹ in the total active forces (19 percent) and their proportion among active duty deployed troops (20 percent). However, the proportion of black personnel in combat support positions was noticeably higher among deployed active duty troops (28 percent) than in the total active duty forces (21 percent). For Hispanic and other personnel, there were only slight differences.

The proportion of white personnel in combat positions was very similar for both the active duty forces as a whole (71 percent) and the active duty deployed troops (69 percent). However, of total active duty personnel in combat support positions, 70 percent are white, while 63 percent of the combat support troops deployed under Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm were white. Table 2 shows a comparison of the combat support active duty forces and the combat support forces deployed for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm by race. Because combat exclusion provisions prohibit the combat assignment of women, gender comparisons are not relevant.

Officers

There was little difference in the racial composition of active duty officer personnel and deployed active duty officer personnel. Of the active duty officer personnel, 87 percent were white, 7 percent were black, 2 percent were Hispanic, and 3 percent were of other or unknown races. Of the deployed active duty officer personnel, 87 percent were white, 8 percent were black, 2 percent were Hispanic, while 3 percent were of other or unknown races.

Enlisted

A comparison of enlisted personnel shows some differences in the representation of black and white populations. While black personnel make up 23 percent of total active duty enlisted personnel, they comprised 26 percent of the enlisted active duty forces who deployed. White personnel make up 67 percent of total active duty enlisted forces, but they comprised 64 percent of active duty enlisted personnel who deployed. Differences in the representation of Hispanic or other personnel between total active duty enlisted personnel and active duty enlisted personnel who deployed were less than 1 percentage point.

Across all racial groups, for both officer and enlisted ranks, a smaller percentage of women were deployed than are present among active duty personnel.

For men the differences between white active duty personnel and deployed active duty personnel who were white are small: 78 percent versus 81 percent for officers and 61 percent for both categories of enlisted personnel. Black male officers are 5 percent of active duty personnel and 7 percent of the deployed force. In the enlisted ranks, black men are 19 percent of the active duty personnel but 23 percent of the deployed force. The differences for Hispanic male personnel and male personnel of other races are negligible.

Scope and Methodology

We obtained all data on which our calculations were based, except U.S. census data, from the Defense Manpower Data Center. We did not verify or test the accuracy of these data, although we did test the internal consistency of the separate sets of data. Defense Manpower Data Center officials, however, advised us that there may still be some minor changes as the data is corrected, but the officials said they do not believe any subsequent corrections will materially change the percentages appearing in this report. With the exception of data for the U.S. population, data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin.

Our review was conducted between April and August 1991. As requested, we did not obtain official Department of Defense comments on this report. However, agency program officials reviewed a draft of the report and we have incorporated their comments where appropriate. An official of the Defense Manpower Data Center also reviewed a draft of this report to confirm the appropriate use of the data supplied by the Center.

Appendix I shows the composition of total active duty end strength for fiscal year 1990. Appendix II shows the composition of forces deployed for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm as of February 15, 1991, the first date that data were available. Appendix III shows the composition of the U.S. population as of the 1990 census. Racial or ethnic comparisons with U.S. general population data were not made because of differences in how the Census Bureau data and Department of Defense data contained in this report record ethnicity. Persons of Hispanic origin may be of any race in U.S. Census data. In contrast, in the Department of Defense data contained in this report, Hispanic personnel are not included in either the black or white categories. This approach reduces the proportion of personnel in both of these racial categories. However, gender comparisons may be made between the data on the general population and active duty military personnel. Appendix IV shows the composition of both total active duty forces and active duty deployed forces by the combat or combat support status of those service personnel. Appendix V shows the composition of total active duty forces by rank, while appendix VI provides that same information for active duty deployed forces.

Unless you publicly announce its contents earlier, we plan no further distribution of this report until 15 days from its issue date. At that time, we will send copies to the Chairmen, Senate Committee on Armed Services, House and Senate Committees on Appropriations, House Committee on Government Operations, and Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs; the Director, Office of Management and Budget; and the Secretaries of Defense, the Air Force, the Army, and the Navy. We will also make copies available to others upon request.

Please contact me at (202) 275-3990 if you or your staff have any questions concerning this report. The information for this fact sheet was developed by Foy D. Wicker, Assistant Director; Beverly Ann Bendekgey, Evaluator-in-Charge; and Diane Blake Harper, Evaluator, Defense Force Management Issues.

Composition of Active Duty Forces

This appendix shows the number and percent of personnel in each of the military services and in the services combined by race or Hispanic origin and by gender as of February/March 1991. Table I.1 shows service end strength of all personnel. Table I.2 provides percentages based on the end strength shown. Data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin. Personnel with unknown race are included in total but not in race categories; this may cause the service data by race or Hispanic origin not to equal the service total.

Composition of Deployed Forces

This appendix shows the number and percent of active duty personnel who were deployed for Operations Desert Storm and Desert Shield in each of the military services and in the services combined by race or Hispanic origin and by gender. Table II.1 shows the total deployed end strength, and table II.2 provides percentages based on the deployed end strength. All data are as of February 15, 1991. Data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin. Personnel with unknown race are included in total but not in race categories; this may cause the service data by race or Hispanic origin not to equal the service total.

Combat or Combat Support Status of Total Active Duty and Active Duty Deployed Forces for the Services Combined

This appendix contains data, by race or Hispanic origin and by gender, which categorizes total active duty personnel and deployed active duty personnel for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm in their combat or combat support status. Combat personnel are those assigned to a combat or combat-related occupation not open to women; some non-combat positions are included in these Defense Manpower Data Center categories, thereby accounting for the small percentages of women included in the data under the "combat" heading in the tables in this appendix. Combat support personnel are those involved in all other occupations. Tables IV.1 through IV.3 provide the numbers of personnel for the services combined and the proportions based on the end strength shown. Data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin. Personnel with unknown race are included in total numbers but not in race categories; this may cause the service data by race not to equal the service total.

Composition of Active Duty Forces by Rank

This appendix provides data on the distribution of active duty forces by rank, race or Hispanic origin, and gender. Tables V.1 through V.10 show end strength and proportions based on that end strength for the services combined and for each service separately. Data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin. There were no personnel in warrant officer grades for the Air Force. Percentage totals for race/Hispanic origin, gender, and gender by race/Hispanic origin may not add to 100 percent due to rounding.

Composition of Deployed Active Duty Forces by Rank

This appendix provides data on the distribution of active duty deployed forces by rank, race or Hispanic origin, and gender as of February 15, 1991. Tables VI.1 through VI.10 show end strength and proportions based on that end strength for the services combined and for each service separately. Data for black and white personnel do not include personnel of Hispanic origin. There were no personnel in warrant officer grades for the Air Force. Percentage totals for race/Hispanic origin, gender, and gender by race/Hispanic origin subgroups may not add to 100 percent due to rounding.
