A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification. In May 1995, DepSecDef approved JAMIP to improve analytic support to senior DoD officials. The Joint Staff/J8 shares the lead with OSD/PA&E. JAMIP will enhance the current suite of models and simulations providing analytic support, and will develop new tools. The centerpiece of JAMIP is the development of the Joint Warfare System (JWARS), which will be a state-of-the-art, closed-form, constructive simulation of multi-sided, joint warfare for analysis. Users of JWARS will include the Combatant Commanders, Joint Staff, Services, OSD, and other DoD organizations. This program is in Budget Activity 7 -Operational Systems Development because it supports currently employed systems and training activities.

A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification.

C4I for the Warrior (C4IFTW) is the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (CJCS) initiative promoting joint and coalition C4I interoperability per DOD Directives. The Joint Staff J-6 is tasked to continuously identify, prioritize, and quickly solve Joint C4I interoperability problems. C4IFTW's three overlapping phases lead to global interoperability for US military forces deployed anywhere, on any mission, at any time, with maximum flexibility in force composition. This Program Element provides focus and visibility into resolving C4I interoperability issues. It includes, but is not limited to, RDT&E, Procurement, and O&M related costs directly associated with C4IFTW efforts. The C4IFTW PE includes annual Joint Warrior Interoperability Demonstrations (JWIDS), the Standardized Tactical Entry Point (STEP) Initiatives, Advanced Concepts, and the Joint C4ISR Battle Center (JBC).

A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification. The Joint Command, Control, Communications, Computers, Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (C4ISR) Battle Center within the Defense Information Services Agency (DISA) will assimilate demonstrations and experiments of large scale engineering required for architecture development of Joint warfighting systems integration which leverage C4ISR. The Center grew out of the FY1995 Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (CJCS) initiative to address the need to provide comprehensive joint warfighting capability that maintains a competitive military advantage dependent on the ability to effectively field evolutionary systems and equipment which assure joint operational capability dominance by quickly organizing and testing innovative C4ISR concepts. The Center will also ensure that as new C4ISR concepts surface, these concepts will be developed to share all C4ISR information with precision force generators which will engender a powerful environment for Joint operational innovations. Industry driven technology advancements dictate rapid insertion into the DoD C4ISR infrastructure to maintain this competitive advantage. The Center will support experiments in mission with actual battle scenarios and assessment specific parameters by utilizing the latest technology insertion and applications to provide a consistently improving state of readiness for the joint warfighter. This program element is under Budget Activity 07 because it supports operational systems development.

A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification.

This program assists in the definition of a Joint Precision Force C4I Operational Architecture by identifying common and integrated communications paths and platforms that will support Joint Strike, Defense, and Maneuver Operations by 2010 in accordance with the CJCS Vision 2010. It is in direct response to DOD guidance directing the Joint Staff to lead an effort to develop an integrated architecture to support Joint Strike, Defense, and Maneuver Operations. Additionally, CJCS is actively advocating a new vision for Information Warfare and Information Assurance that will enable US led forces to dominate future battlefields. Central to this emerging vision is an evolving concept currently referred to as the "information macrosystem." A compelling need exists to explore and develop advanced system concepts, concepts of operation, and operational requirements for the emerging information macrosystem. A portion of this effort will assist in the refinement of joint C4ISR concepts, doctrines, and requirements by allowing us to perform the necessary research and development for customizing commercial technologies for the warfighter. Joint Staff leadership of this effort requires this focused research and development initiative.

A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification.

In the FY97 PB, funding for the Joint Simulation System was budgeted in the Joint Staff's Management Headquarters Program Element 0902298J. It has since been moved into its own PE. JSIMS is at the leading edge of the Goldwaters-Nichols Act as the vehicle to institute interoperability and Joint Training, and eliminate Service stovepipe training. JSIMS is a single, seamlessly integrated simulation environment designed to train CINCs and Services to meet the Chairman's Joint Training System requirements. It includes a core infrastructure and mission space objects, both maintained in a common repository. The objects can be composed to create a simulation capability to support Joint or Service training, rehearsal, or education objectives. JSIMS is a core of common and joint representations and services, a runtime hardware and software infrastructure, interfaces, and representations of Air/Space, Land, and Maritime Warfare functionality. JSIMS includes a strategy for cooperative development that is based on the use of Executive Agents (i.e. Army, Navy, AF, etc.) to provide authoritative domain-specific representations. This program is in budget activity 7 - Operational Systems Development, because it supports currently employed systems and training activities.

A. Mission Description and Budget Item Justification.

The Partnership for Peace Information Management System (PIMS) will launch a comprehensive R&D effort with 27 PFP nations starting in FY 98. Currently PIMS policy and technical briefing teams are in the first stages of International Memorandums of Agreement (MOA) with several Partner nations. These MOAs define the requirements, mutual obligations, and detailed activities of the signatories in accordance with the particular circumstances of each nation. Formal implementation of PIMs - briefing teams, MOAs, site surveys, installations, training and operation (communication, data base development, and maintenance) also will formally begin in FY 98. This provides the U.S. and 21 Partner nations a vehicle for collective cost avoidance through collaborative database development and operation and maintenance life cycle cost sharing. The international MOA which covers all these programs and requirements will remain in force for five years. The five year development program is supported by an O&M budget line to maintain the infrastructure necessary to focus the efforts of numerous DoD and PFP programs on specific database development efforts. This program is in Budget Activity 7, Operational Systems Development, because it supports currently employed systems and training activities.
