Vice Admiral
William S. Sims,
USN

“The Kentucky is not a battleship at all. She is the worst crime in naval construction ever perpetrated by the white race.”

– LT William S. Sims

Researchers have “discovered that the ability to stick with it – the technical name for this trait is grit – is one of the most important predictors of success.”

- Jonah Lehrer

“With every fibre of my being I loathe indirection and shiftiness, and where it occurs in high place, and is used to save face at the expense of the vital interests of our great service (in which silly people place such a child-like trust), I want that man's blood and I will have it no matter what it costs me personally.”

- LT William Sims

“The rankest kind of insubordination.”

- Rear Admiral William Sims

“Give him entire charge of target practice for eighteen months; do exactly as he says. If he does not accomplish anything in that time, cut off his head and try someone else.”

- President Theodore Roosevelt

“The renaissance in gunnery which came about chiefly through the instrumentality of Commander Sims, has ... led to great improvements in ordnance.”

-- Admiral Mason,
Chief, Bureau of Ordnance

Photo # NH 50114 VAdm. Wm. S. Sims with members of his staff, London, 1918

“He continued to be a thorn in the fat flesh of the naval hierarchy during his entire career.”

- The Milwaukee Journal, 1949

Lessons Observed

- Know where your expertise lies.
- Find a way to talk about your idea. But...don't be insubordinate. It's about the idea, not about the people.
- Find something you believe in, and demonstrate your own Grit.
- Remember that the more senior you become the more innovation is about listening.
